Writing your own monster story

Today I want you to use all of your creativity to write about your very own monster that you have designed yesterday. For this story, I want the following to happen. You are about to go to bed and you have just realised that there is something lurking (creeping) in your room. You look under you bed and ... (that is where your story starts)!

Describe the monster that you have created, as well as what happened when you found him. Be creative and enjoy the writing process. After you have written your story, you can give it to an adult to check on your spelling mistakes.

Remember, the monster can be anything that you want it to be. The sky is really your limit!

There's a MONSTER under my bed...
